THE PRICE OF RECOGNITION

However much Russia is in need of the commodities of the world, it is evident from the reception given the recent trade delegation representing the commercial interests of England that the Soviet government will do without them if they cannot bargain for full diplomatic recognition.

The delegation of tradesmen representing 150 firms went to Moscow full of hope of bagging orders for materials for a very considerable amount. The Russians have let it be known that they expect to expend $10,000,000 in the next five years. Since England has the materials which Russia needs and since Russia has the wood and grain needed by England, it seemed only necessary to take a little trip to Moscow to complete the deal. But the result was otherwise.

In the first place, the delegation did not carry with it the active cooperation of the British Foreign Office, and without this the bargain in the minds of the Soviet government could not be struck. Again, there were no bankers in the delegation and nobody, therefore, who could talk business on the subject of the long time credit which Russia needs.

As a consequence the delegation was not warmly welcomed. In fact only three of the number were honored by a reception. Mr. Litvinoff, Acting Chief of Foreign Affairs, had little to do with the group, quickly turning them over to a small committee while he hastened off to Geneva. Mr. Platakoff, as head of this committee, in his initial speech, lost little time in naming the price for more active trade relations, particularly as it concerned participation in the projected purchasing program. Concessions to English firms were declared impossible if in return Russia did not gain full diplomatic recognition. Without this, it was intimated, Moscow would continue to purchase only necessities.

With this declaration of principle it did not take long for many of the delegates to pack their bags and start for home. Only the more far-sighted remained to learn more of the situation and the possibilities of future business.

Now that England knows the price for participation in the mutton which Russia may cut, it remains to be seen what she will do in the case. One thing is very certain; the commercial interests will leave no stone unturned in urging the full recognition of the Soviet government.

What Others Say

SENSE IN WASHINGTON AND OTTAWA

It is gratifying to find that the American and Canadian governments have agreed to arbitrate the case of the In. Alone, the rum-runner sunk by the coast guard off the Louisiana coast on March 22. After a thorough exchange of views between the governments, it has been found that the two angles of approach are so far apart that only an impartial investigation of the facts will bring about a final settlement.

The decision to arbitrate is fortunate for two distinct reasons. First, it shows clearly that the men responsible for our own foreign relations and the Canadians with the same duties are cool-headed and willing to submit their differences to the process of pacific settlement under international law. In the second place, arbitration will be wholesome in that it will make clear just what the rights and duties of the United States are, under the anti-smuggling treaties that have been negotiated with a number of powers.

Ever since these so-called "liquor treaties" were ratified in 1922 and later, the exact rights of this country have been uncertain. Our national jurisdiction was extended from three miles to "an hour's sailing," generally interpreted as twelve miles. But what of the principle of "hot pursuit"? Is it to apply just as before when our territorial waters extended only three miles from our coast lines? These and other related questions will be clarified by the coming arbitration, and the uncertainty will be removed, not only respecting the Canadian-American treaty, but also the equivalent treaties with all countries who have agreed to co-operate in enforcing our dry law.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Stars Say —
For Sunday, May 12

SUNDAY'S horoscope, although showing active conditions, may not be pronounced a fortunate one. There will be restlessness, possibly ill-advised moves, setbacks and disappointments, with much to dishearten and overcome. There may be some pleasant social or domestic compensations.

Those whose birthday it is may have a lively year but one which it is doubtful if there will be much progress or satisfaction. There may be obstacles and delays and possibly an unwelcome upheaval or change. A child born on this day may be restless and wayward, albeit fairly active and clever. It may be called on to surmount many obstacles in life and should be given a fitting education to meet this condition.

Out of Eternity this new day is born; into Eternity at night will return. —Carlyle.

For Monday, May 13

MONDAY'S astrological forecast may be interpreted as of contradictory force. While employment and its rewards are fairly gratifying, yet on the whole the personal relations may have a disconcerting or counteracting influence. It would be well to pay close attention to matters in hand and maintain tranquillity and harmony within.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fairly lively and prosperous year in business and employment, but there may be offsetting or annoying personal relations to be harmoniously adjusted. A child born on this day may be bright, ambitious and be fairly successful, but may have distresses or inharmonies of a personal nature to combat.

'Tis not by wishing that we gain the prize, nor yet by ruing, wishing-near-by hased. F. Uenit. —James W. Foley.

LOWERED VITALITY AN INVITATION TO GERMS

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
(United States Senator from New York)

Why is it so hard to shake off a cold? Why does the pesky thing hang on so long?

Well, in the first place, you never have a cold unless you are run down in health. Of course, I do not mean you never take cold unless you are the midst of a terrible decline. As a matter of fact, you have been unusually well for months, and then suddenly you develop a hard cold. But there must have been a few days when you were below par.

Loss of sleep is a real factor. Excessive fatigue is another. Tired people are always in danger if disease germs are lurking in the neighborhood. The worst of it is, too, these unfriendly germs are on watch in every neighborhood. There appears to be some sort of a relationship between constipation and the onset of a cold. When there is fermentation in the bowel, with the bacterial growth that always accompanies it, there is direct lowering of the vitality. This permits the causative agent of the cold to break through the defenses of the body. The sneezing begins almost at once.

Following an infection of this sort there is more or less fever. The appetite declines, the sleep is disturbed, and, all in all, the victim feels mean and miserable. These uncomfortable effects are added to the original state of lowered health. You can see why we should regard the cold as much more serious than we are inclined to do. It is a mistake to disregard it.

But we are not at the end of our dismal recital. We must consider what else the miserable cold can do to us. The bones of the face are hollow. There are spaces of considerable size, and bone that is spongy in its nature. These cavities open into the nose and are lined with mucous membrane, continuous with the membrane lining of the nose.

If you have a cold, the narrow passageways between the large openings of the nose and these hollow spaces, may be considerably swollen. In consequence, the mucus which forms within the cavities, fills them to overflowing. That is where the tremendous quantities of mucus come from when the cold "ripens."

In these dark, warm places, in the jazy lake secretion, the germs reveal and multiply. If they happen to be pus-producing germs, there is danger of extension of their activities. Then the ears and bronchial tubes are in danger. There may be an earache and even mastoid trouble. There may be bronchitis and it is no laughing matter if broncho-pneumonia develops.

Whenever germs lodge in a part of the body and thrive there, it is to be expected that poisons, toxins, will develop. These help to lower the vitality and depress the health.

You see that a cold comes on because the vital processes are low. It serves to make them still lower. So, unless you take pains to get rid of your cold, it will keep you miserable for weeks.

For Mother's Day

Give her a practical gift

MOTHER is such a busy person—always doing this for "Bud," that for "Sister" and never failing "Dad" when he needs her. Every minute of her time is so useful, so devoted to her family that she especially appreciates gifts which are useful too—and which the whole family can help her enjoy. Why not give her then, this Mother's Day, a gift which answers these qualifications perfectly—one which you probably have never thought of before.

Can You Guess?

It is a gift which will help her make meals more tasty than ever before, more appetizing—the table more attractive. And what Mother is not always striving for that! And, just as important, this gift will help her save money—and protect the health of her family! Now, do you know what it is?

ICE, of course. A plentiful and regular supply of it every day!

Just make the arrangements with us, and we will see that she is regularly supplied. In families especially where ice is not taken at all, or at best only once in a while, this arrangement would be of immeasurable satisfaction and pleasure to Mother.

A Good Ice Refrigerator Is Essential

Mahoning County Farm Notes

S. H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation and F. A. Russell of the University of Illinois will be listed among the speakers at the series of four bureau meetings to be held during farm bureau week in Ohio, June 10-14, says an announcement received at the office of the Mahoning County Farm Bureau. The schedule of the meetings includes those at Lima, June 10-11; Canton, June 11-12; Zanesville, June 12-13; and Wilmington, June 13, 14.

The gatherings during farm bureau week are planned for all members of the Farm Bureau and their friends in city and country. The program is so arranged that those attending the meetings will learn more of the aims and purposes as well as the operations of the entire organization, according to L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

Thompson will come to Ohio from Washington, and will speak at the four meetings on the Farm Bureau's place in public affairs. Professor Russell of Illinois will discuss phases of salesmanship related to organization.

In addition to these talks, a number of leaders in farm organization work in Ohio and of cooperative marketing units of the state will tell of their work and the achievements of their organizations.

The general program will center around the four points of the general farm bureau program—marketing, reduction of farming costs, representation in government, and service to home and community.

A dinner meeting of some nature will be held at each of the four gatherings it is announced. At this session, the evening of the first day, civic leaders and others of town and city, interested in agriculture are to be given a special invitation.

A community play, "Mother Mine" will be given in Greenford High School Auditorium, Friday evening, May 17th. The proceeds are to be used to liquidate the debts on the piano which was purchased for the new building. The public is invited to come and enjoy an evening of entertainment. Music will be furnished by the Calvin Orchestra.

Chicago,—"Grandpa is getting too frisky."

The above statement was in the form of a warning issued by Dr. Wallace Harrison, supreme medical examiner of the Royal League of mutual insurance associations members. "Frisky grandpas who won't budge their age and insist on overdoing a golf and playing like kids are the most difficult problems encountered by insurance doctors," he said.

AMMEL MOTOR SA

HAM-1

Washington, May 8.—Probably the weather forecast on the front page of the daily newspaper is almost the first item most of the millions of newspaper readers scan.

Explaining this, weather bureau experts say that those who live in the city want to know, naturally, whether to carry an umbrella or put chains on the automobile, while those who are engaged in agriculture, the probable state of the weather for the day and the prediction for tomorrow determines what work will be planned or accomplished.

"With reliable service from the Weather Bureau it would seem that the old-time weather proverbs would soon pass out of use and be forgotten, even if any of them were dependable," one of the experts said. "Many, indeed, were absurd and misleading, but not a few are interesting as reflecting the accuracy of observation by those who are 'out in all weathers,' and useful when the daily paper is not at hand to furnish a forecast."

According to this expert among the best of these, perhaps, are the proverbs that have to do with the color of the sky and the appearances of the sun, the moon, and the stars, for all are affected by the state of the atmosphere.

Sun Fables

"Any modified appearance of the sun is most conspicuous when it is near the horizon," the expert said. "Hence there are many weather proverbs about the sun at morning or evening. When the air is heavily charged with dust particles laden with moisture we see the sun as a fiery red ball, and predict rain, in such proverbs as 'a red sun has water in his eye,' or 'if red, the sun begins his race, be sure the rain will fall apace.' The red sun implies a humid atmosphere, a condition essential and favorable to the occurrence of rain.

"On the other hand, a red evening sky usually means that the air contains very little moisture and that rain within the next 24 hours is improbable. When the evening sky is overcast with uniform gray the dust particles in the atmosphere have evidently become loaded with much moisture, giving rise to the land Times Gazette, Rybolt consented to answer a few questions.

"The purchasing department of the state of Ohio is a great business organization," he explained. "In it about $25,000,000 is spent each year for the purchase of supplies and other maintenance necessities for the various state institutions."

Rybolt pointed out how the law requires every purchase to be made by bids, and how these bids are opened at specified times, and the contract in each case is awarded upon the basis of quality and price.

Since he took over the regime of the department, Rybolt has inaugurated a new division, to be known as the Statistical Department, which will save the state more than a million dollars a year, he estimates.

Keeps Accurate Record
"The purpose of this department is to keep an accurate record of cost and quantities of goods purchased for each state institution every month during the year," the purchasing agent asserted.

Quoting the old adage, "The more quantity the lower the price," Rybolt pointed out how this quantity-buying would allow wholesale purchases of materials and wholesale freight rates, with the resultant savings, not only in freight, but also in the cost of the goods.

Rybolt's department buys "everything from baby shoes to autos" for the various state institutions, as one employee so appropriately expressed it.

Besides establishing this new system within his department, the Ashland man has also created a "fool-proof" method of checking up on contractors' deliveries. Those business men would find it more than difficult to cheat or "short-measure" the state, even if they felt so inclined.

When Rybolt opens his bids, he demands that the competitors furnish him a sample of the goods to be purchased. These samples are confined away and carefully checked with the goods received at the institutions.

This had not been done, heretofore, he declared.

"You must be a busy man?" it was suggested.

"I am," and saying this he turned back to his desk, denoting that the interview was closed.

Rybolt, one-time mayor of Akron, could be called "The Housekeeper of the state of Ohio," or "The official tender of the pursestrings of the treasury of the state."

Returning to the $25,000,000 topic, stupendousness of his daily task can be appreciated from these figures.

The United States purchased the Alaska territory for less than half of $25,000,000 and Long Island cost the American forefathers $5 and a string of beads.

Upon the shoulders of Rybolt, who, by the way, was the high school principal at Galion some years ago, rests the responsibility of wisely and economically spending a vast fortune yearly for the state of Ohio.

SAFETY DRIVE

sponsored by the Columbiana County Motor club, issuing the following proclamation to residents of this city:

"In this way I desire to express my hearty approval of the plan inaugurated by the motor club, through its secretary, Mr. A. P. Morris, to start a safety campaign to run through a period of 365 days.

"I hereby designate the week of May 12-19 inclusive, as a period of particular concentration on the subject during which time the commendable move should have gained such momentum that it will roll through the year with but a little assistance.

"I understand that all Salem organizations are heartily enlisted in the drive's campaign and I call on every individual to give serious thought to the subject, to the end that his rights and the rights of others may be conserved and not encroached upon.

"While I realize that the A. A. A. and motor clubs are primarily interested in vehicles and pedestrians, and I cannot too highly praise the sentiment contained therein, I would ask all Salem citizens to observe May 12-19 as a general safety week.

"This observance should apply to all people and industries where the safety of persons and property is, or should be, of prime interest. To the end that the safety thought may be impressed to a point of retention, I suggest that everybody during safety week, twice each day, raise the right hand above the head while repeating the words 'Safety First.'"

At the same time a thought of the fine points of the Golden Rule should complete a perfect setting of idea that we all are to a large extent our brothers' keepers.

"The full power of all city departments is pledged to this Safety Week and the widest possible cooperation of city officials and employees is expected in the swing. I would ask Salem ministers and others who direct thought and action to assist in this wonderful move.

"Salem has been notably free from serious accidents and it is hoped that the safety campaign about to be lodged may be lasting in effect and tend to reduce accidents to a minimum if not prevent them entirely.

(Signed) Phil G. Haddeson, Mayor May 11, 1929.

It made possible the small race car

Modern race cars blur their way at speeds exceeding one hundred miles per hour! Yet, compared to the big machines of a decade ago, they are like toys.

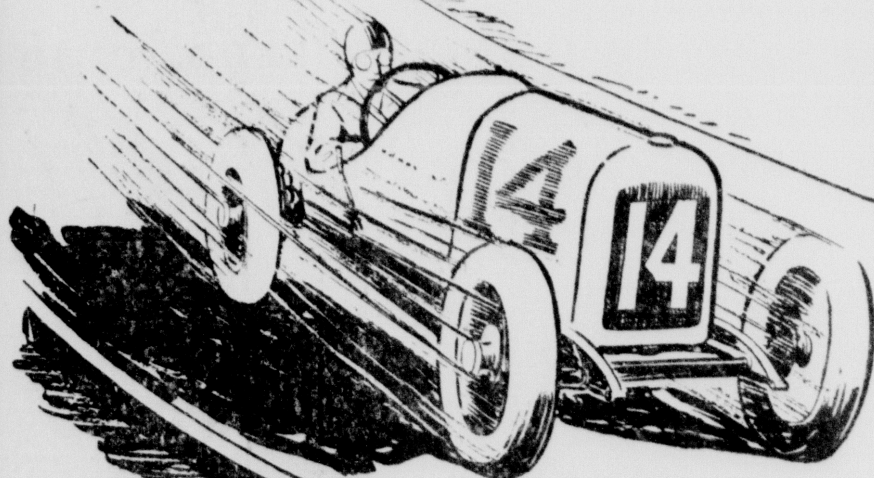

Their smaller motors, turning at much higher speeds, account for the records they smash. Higher compression makes possible these smaller motors—and anti-knock gasoline makes possible this higher compression.

It is for your higher compression motor that FREEDOM Ethyl Gasoline is refined. It eliminates the possibility of knock. You drive along more quietly, skim up hills without engine clatter, and add years to your car's life because of the resulting smoothness of operation.

GOVERNOR BYRD TO CHECK DRY RAID SHOOTING

Uncle of Dead Youth Has Fortune to Spend To Prevent Killings

Abingdon, Va., May 11.—With indictment looking for Policeman McReynolds and his deputies, James Crowe and J. H. Worley, alleged to have shot and killed youthful J. M. Kendrick while pursuing a suspected liquor-running car, officials of this town today awaited the promised demand from Governor Harry E. Byrd for a full report of the fatal shooting.

Advices from the state capital at Richmond indicated that Governor Byrd was "deeply concerned" over the killing of the college student and quoted the state executive as saying:

"While these officers are under my control I shall write immediately for a report of the incident. I will determine my course of action after I get this report."

Commonwealth Attorney Parks said today that nearly a year ago he warned the officers against indiscriminate gun fire. He asserted that indictments will be demanded against the three officers, now under $5,000 bail on a murder charge, when the grand jury meets May 27.

L. M. Kendrick, wealthy uncle and guardian of the slain youth, has announced his intention of spending every cent of his fortune "to bring these men to justice."

"It is not for revenge," Kendrick told newspapermen. "It is rather to forestall now and for all time a recurrence of this tragedy."

Miss Sweney, sister of Miss Leona Sweney, teacher of the school, offered a piano solo, Mrs. George Fieldhouse, president of the Parent-Teacher association, gave a reading, and Max Staudelbauer and Parsons Marple entertained with mandolin and guitar selections.

The association presented Miss Sweney, the teacher, a gift.

CANTON CRISIS REPORTED NEAR

Invaders Approach City
From Three Sides;
Warships Watch

London, May 11.—A critical situation prevails at Canton, China, where fighting between Cantonese troops (Nationalist supporters) and Kwangsi rebels is reported on the outskirts of the city, according to advices from Hongkong, this afternoon.

The Japanese consul, reports from Shanghai stated, has warned Japanese citizens out of the danger zone.

There are a number of Americans, English and other foreigners in the city.

Canton is filled with refugees. American, British and other foreign warcraft are lying in the harbor off Canton.

The Kwangsi insurgent army, which is advancing upon Canton from three sides outnumber the Cantonese defenders two to one.

President Chiang Kai Shek, head of the Nanking (Nationalist) government has been unable to send reinforcements owing to the uncertainty of the military situation further north.

Chiefs of the Kwangsi faction, who are seeking to overturn the Nanking government, plan to set up their own provisional administration in Canton if they take the city.

In addition to American residents there is a large amount of American-owned property in the Canton district.

Loughran is in training now for a heavy weight bout with Ernie Schaaf in Boston on May 24.

Mount Union's Best Athlete

ALLIANCE, May 9.—It is not hard to pick the all-round athlete at Mount Union college for Wallace Glenwright a junior, is the outstanding candidate. He is a two year letterman in football and basketball, has already this season won his second track award, and is now bidding for recognition on the baseball diamond which will make him a letterman in four sports.

On the gridiron he is a triple threat man, performing either as half or quarterback. He plays a forward position on the "Purple" quintet and is rated as Mount's best shot. As to track, he holds the college javelin record, and won that event in the "Big Six" meet of last year with a heave of 178 feet. He is also one of Mount's entries in the high jump.

Glenwright, as short stop, is playing his first college baseball. He seems certain of a letter in this fourth sport which will make him one of the outstanding Mount athletes of all time. He rates as an average student in scholarship.

McArtor Banquets Basketball Team

Perry McArtor, backer of the McArtor Florists' basketball team in last fall's city cage league, treated members of his team to a banquet and theater party, in Youngstown Friday night.

Thirteen guests were fed at the banquet, held at Overlook Inn, following which all attended the Keith-Albee in a body.

Informal proceedings ruled the entire occasion. Joe M. Kelley, manager of the aggregation, giving the toast in honor of its backer at the close of the dinner.

Last year was McArtor's premiere entrance into sporting activities, the Florists finishing near the top in both halves of the city competition, being edged out of the title towards the close of the season. Another team will be backed by him next year.

Floyd Stone, Morgan Ruffner, Joe Kelley, Chic Roessler, Herman Litt, Evan Jenkins, Pete Harsh, Bill McKown, Dick Hyde, Chris Roessler, Wilbur Springer, Florists team members, and Raphael Reasback, league official, and Fred Schuller attended the affair.

Paris.—Clovis Allard, fired a cannon at his head in an attempt to commit suicide but he failed. The weapon he employed was a one-pound trench cannon which he had kept as a souvenir of his service with the French Army during the world war. Allard trained the muzzle on his head and with a long lanyard fired the charge. His aim was poor. The projectile grazed his cheek.

American Golfers Make Clean Sweep Of English Play

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, May 11.—Dour, old Muirfield, with its rolling vista of heather and dune, is only a memory today, just a milestone along the highroad over which the American golfer has traveled to world dominion. Just another rung in the ladder that leads ever upward. In brief, the 1929 open golf championship of Great Britain is no more and if England never hears about it again, it will be somewhat premature.

The thing died a horrible death on England's hands and today all that was left was the problem of getting rid of the body. This shouldn't be difficult. Nobody wanted to claim it after American golfers finished one-two-three and placed eight of their number in the first ten late yesterday afternoon. So much for American golf in general. It dealt the thing they once called British prestige a final and lasting blow, the echo of which will ring through the corridors of time.

But we deal not with the body of golf today but with the golfer of the hour, Mr. Walter Hagen, winner of the championship for the fourth time in seven years. Yes, I'm mistaking the fellow today, for I find it doesn't pay to presume with genius and Mr. Hagen is all of that. It may be noticed that I placed his status by the hour hand only and made no mention of the day, the month, the year or the generation.

There are, as a matter of fact, two great golfers in the world today and the real point of this declaration is that, for once, Bobby Jones isn't both of them.

Home Runs Popular With League Topping Yankee, Cub Outfits

BY LES CONKLIN
New York, May 11.—The Yankees and Cubs, leaders in their respective leagues, are taking a short cut to Pennantville via the home run route this season.

The Yanks always have favored the hit-and-walk play, but the Cubs are just beginning to realize its full benefits. Chicago has a home run total of 19 for the season this morning, only one less than the four-base total of the Huguen, perennial leaders in the home-run marathon.

The Cubs passed the Giants' home run total of 18 when Kiki Cuyler and Charley Root hit for the circuit against the New Yorkers yesterday just by way of lending color to Manager Joe McCarthy's assertion that the Bruins, a team of fly-ball hitters, would break the league home-run record if they could play regularly at the Polo grounds with its short left and right fields.

In swamping the Giants 11 to 4, the Cubs clouted 13 hits for 21 bases and swelled their team batting average to .364. They have lost only one game in the east.

The Yankees, undefeated in the west, chalked up their eighth straight win in tromping Detroit, 10 to 5, and now enjoy a lead of a game and a half over the Athletics, who lost, Babe Ruth, with his right wrist practically useless, smacked homer No. 6 and now is only one out to Brother Gehrig. The Babe has hit safely in ten consecutive games and Earl Combs in eleven.

Meusel and Heilmann also hit for the circuit. The Yanks have hit 16 homers in their last eight games.

Walter Miller of Cleveland blanked the Athletics, 9 to 0, the A's suffering their first shutout of the year. Averill's homer with the bases jammed was a feature.

Garland Braxton yielded only four hits as Washington downed the White Sox, 4 to 2. The Nats taking sixth place away from the pale hose.

With Oeden on the mound, the St. Louis Browns ended their losing streak of four games by nosing out the Red Sox, 4 to 3.

The St. Louis Cardinals stayed within one game of the Cubs in the National League by whitewashing Brooklyn, 4 to 0. Dizzy Vance struck out eight men but was outpitched by Sylvester Johnson.

Rabbit Maranville chose a bad spot to make his first error of the season, his boot helping the Reds to do the Braves 5 to 3. Earl Clark of the Braves set a new league record by making 12 put-outs in centerfield.

The Phillies scored seven runs in the first inning and then lost a 13 to 9 nightmare to the Pirates, incidentally dropping below Cincinnati into sixth place. A six-run rally in the eighth gave the Pirates the game.

"On Trial," which stars Bert Lytell, in his first vitaphone role. With Lois Wilson and Pauline Frederick as members of the co-starring cast, Warner Bros. have produced a powerful feature that inaugurated the talkies into stardom with unprecedented success some time ago.

George Fawcett is cast with Audrey Ferris and James Murray in "The Little Wildcat," in which the old South affords a beautiful background for an equally splendid plot. It is a sparkling comedy-drama, with Fawcett in one of his greatest roles.

"House of Horrors" for years the premiere comedienne of the screen establishes herself in a new characterization of success in "The House of Horrors," in which Chester Conklin, William V. Mong, and other eminent artists are cast.

An Ohio cross roads general store, presided over by Miss Fazenda and Conklin as brother and sister, is the setting for the opening of one of the weirdest mystery stories built around comedy characters that has ever been filmed.

A mysterious stranger brings a summons for the couple to come to New York to visit an aged uncle, an antique collector and a miserly reclusive. Once inside that strange combination of store and house, things happen that keep Louise and Chester in a latter of excitement.

"The Royal" is bringing a series of remarkably successful talkies within a short time in the future. Among those listed are, in Old Arizona, Hearts in Dixie, The Ghost Talks, Spunkies, Grey Hound Limited, Lucky Boy, Midnight Taxi, Glorious Betty, Synopation, Molly and Me, and others.

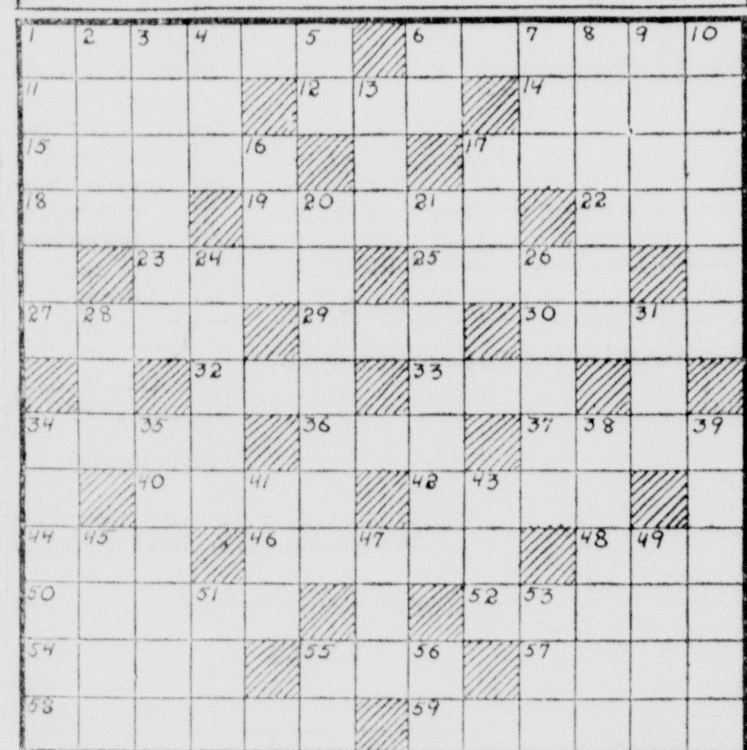

Hoot Gibson stars in "Burning Wreath," which is shown there Friday and Saturday.

In "Coquette," Miss Pickford will be seen—and heard—as a willful, dazzling young Southern belle who defies family and convention for the man she loves.

With the exception of John Mack Brown, who came to the films from the college football gridiron, all of the players have been on the speaking stage. Every member of the cast was required to make extensive tests of both voice and photography before being chosen by Miss Pickford for a part in "Coquette." Those who have heard Miss Pickford's speaking a sensation among audiences when her voice is heard, and they add that her appearance in "a wind-blown bob," for which she sacrificed her famous curls, will complete the surrender of her admiring world to the new order of things in the amazing Pickford career.

Because its name gives no indication of its nature, there are all sorts of rumors about sweet breads. I have heard admirers of the dish insist they are really "brains," and one benighted diner whose favorite food is mushrooms and sweetbreads had the delusion that they were a sort of vegetable.

Sweetbreads are the glands of calves, and there are two kinds. One variety is the "pancreas" which secretes the digestive juices in the stomach. The other is the thymus gland found in the throat and is more delicate of the two. Sweetbreads have become an important item of diet in recent years. Since scientists have traced so many of our physical and mental disorders to the imperfection of our glands, also sweetbreads properly prepared are so easy of digestion that they may be fed to children.

Because of its excellent nutritive value sweetbreads ought to appear on the table frequently, served both to grown-ups and to children. It's the sort of meat that can be combined with other items, and is not necessarily served whole as a complete dish by itself. There are a great many ways of preparing sweetbreads, both hot and cold. And when it is a good buy in warm weather when one doesn't feel like preparing much meat and yet has to please those who enjoy a meal only with some meat flavors.

How to Prepare Sweetbreads
Wash immediately and soak in cold water for one hour. Drain. Place in boiling water to which 1 tablespoon of lemon juice is added. Boil 5 minutes. Drain and put in cold water, where it will become firm again. Remove fibers.

No matter how the sweetbreads are to be prepared, this process must first be followed—and it really isn't as troublesome as it sounds. The simplest way to cook them, and wholesome enough for anyone, is to broil them.

Broiled Sweetbreads
Cut the sweetbreads in half lengthwise. Spread with soft butter on toast. Or pour into hot patty shells.

Sweetbreads may be creamed in this fashion with diced veal or tongue, or chicken, and sweet peas.

Sweetbread Salad
Broil the sweetbread and set aside to cool. Cut in dice, and mix with any of the vegetables you should use in a chicken salad. Mound on lettuce and serve with mayonnaise dressing. Good combinations are sweetbreads with asparagus tips, or cucumber, or watercress, or thin slices of orange.

Sweetbreads and Mushrooms
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup hot milk
1 pair sweetbreads
1 lb. mushrooms
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons cold milk
Melt butter in saucepan, add the peeled mushrooms and simmer until tender. Dissolve cornstarch in cold milk, then add to hot milk and mushrooms. Cut the sweetbreads in small pieces and place in pan, and simmer for 5 minutes. Remove from fire, add beaten eggs and serve.

Chicago Murder Area Not Far From Famous Gold Coast

Chicago, May 11.—The most cosmopolitan district of any city in the world is believed to be on the north side of Chicago in a territory a mile and a half in length and scarcely a mile wide.

Along the so-called Gold Coast, which is the famous residential district of the city, are the most famous society leaders at the time. The "Gold Coast" is a name given to the area because of the gold-colored mansions which line the shore.

Then, "death corner," the Italian settlement. Gaunt tenements housing ill fed children, shabby men and women, lacking in air. It was at this corner scores of men have been killed in the last 20 years. Never once have police been able to find one person among the thousands swarming the streets on that corner who ever admitted they saw a man killed, or who even would admit hearing the sound of a shot.

Persons themselves helped to bring to the book. The old society of things, society of the past, with dowager queens passing and leadership among the elite has been assumed by the progressive rich young who can keep pace with modern ern times. Social life is described as a "constant game of wits and riches, with the goal of prestige, position and influence."

In this district is the spacious home of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, the massive Drake hotel, the Chicago Historical society building and others. A scant few blocks away is the gloomy Chicago river with its factories, docks and evil smelling dank pilings.

Nearby are scores of little bohemian cates, filled with the "hobos" and writers. One street is dotted with speakeasies hidden away in rickety buildings built long before the old World's Fair in the past century. Truck drivers, railroad workers and mendicants brush shoulders with society persons strolling on Lake Shore drive, only a few feet away.

COLUMBIANA

Bridge club associates were delightfully entertained Wednesday evening by Mrs. Henry Coblenz at her home on North Main St. Three tables of bridge were in play, with Mrs. Russell Esterly capturing the prize for high score and Mrs. F. W. Trader the guest prize. Following the games a delicious lunch was served at one long table lovely with a color scheme of pink and green. The guests were Mrs. Trader, Mrs. Clifford Laughlin, Mrs. Bert Dickinson and her house guest, Mrs. Donald Rollins of Greenville, Pa. Mrs. Russell Esterly will be the next hostess.

The annual "open house" of the Columbiana schools will be on Friday, May 17th, afternoon and evening. Plans are being made for a program in the evening, and the work of the various rooms and classes may be inspected both afternoon and evening. All patrons of the local schools are invited and should attend to familiarize themselves with the splendid work being done under the present efficient corps of teachers.

The final meeting of the Sorosis Society for the season will be the May Party, which will be held next Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Wick Frye, South Main St. Mrs. Frye, Mrs. C. D. Strickler and Mrs. Solon Morris are the committee on arrangements. Dinner will be served at 6:30 by the members of the L. L.
